Exercises at the University—Reception at Senator Perkins' Home—The Parade and School Children.

The entire country has gathered to see them and to witness the grandest display of patriotism ever witnessed in this country. Everywhere they were greeted with cheering and waving of flags and the shouting of "Hello, Mr. McKinley." It was one continuous stream of people from the time they landed at the Oakland wharf till they embarked for San Francisco at the foot of Broadway.

The route they traversed was one mass of brilliant color. Dwellings and business houses alike were draped in flag and bunting. All the decorations, carried in the parade, were of the red, white and blue. Even the floral designs were woven in these patriotic colors. Carriages, buggies and bicycles appeared in the parade.

WILLIAM M'KINLEY.

M'KINLEY DID NOT COME TO OAKLAND.

President Is Compelled to Abandon All the Plans Made for Him.

Serious Illness of Mrs. M'Kinley Makes it Necessary to Give Up the Northwest Tour.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 15.—At 10 o'clock this morning Secretary Cortelyou informed the Associated Press that Mrs. M'Kinley's serious illness compels the President to abandon his proposed visit to other States to which he had looked forward with so much pleasure. As soon as Mrs. M'Kinley's health will permit he will return to Washington by the most direct route.

Secretary Cortelyou also issued the following bulletin as to Mrs. M'Kinley's condition:

"There has been but little change in Mrs. M'Kinley's condition since last night. She has gained in some respects and lost in others."

The President will remain quietly at Mr. Scott's residence today and will not take part in any of the exercises programmed for him.

MRS. M'KINLEY SAID TO BE VERY ILL.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 15.—It is learned that Mrs. McKinley's condition is considered serious by the physicians attending her. Drs. Rice and Hirschfelder were in consultation this morning and another physician will be called in this afternoon. It is very probable that if she recovers Mrs. McKinley will be unable to leave San Francisco by next Monday when the stay of the Presidential party was to have terminated. The President will remain here with Mrs. McKinley.

The illness of Mrs. McKinley prevents the President from participating in the ceremonies but the members of the cabinet and others of the Presidential party closed the day on the levee tour.

As the little steamer crossed the harbor the warships lying at anchor saluted and all the steamers sang out their salutes in honor of the party. The guests were taken to the University grounds and the exercises of the day were observed. Secretary Cortelyou acted in the President's stead. The Presidential party were entertained at luncheon by President Langhorne, the President of the University of California.

SEC. HAY TAKES PLACE OF PRESIDENT.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 15.—President McKinley did not go to Berkeley today to attend the commencement exercises at the University of California.

* peared trimmed in flowers emblematic of the national colors.
* In harmony with the crowds, music, flags and decorations was the measured tread of the battalion of marines from Mare Island, who represented the might of this young nation on the high seas.
* Conspicuous among the decorations the President's portrait appeared everywhere. Sometimes it was alone, as if its stately dignity would be marred by any embellishment. Sometimes it was draped by the flag of his country when he has made glorious to the uttermost ends of the earth sometimes it was enshrouded in flowers and sometimes decked with streamers or accompanied by the portraits of his Cabinet officers.
* There was a vast swarm in the streets. Early in the day the crowds began to gather. They poured in from the surrounding towns, all the forenoon, and long ere the Presidential party arrived the sidewalks were thronged with thousands of people. The utmost good order and good humor prevailed, and the good natured exchange of greetings, among the happy throngs of the assembled throngs.
* The party arrived at the Oakland depot shortly after 10 o'clock in the evening under Golden Gate. A crowd greeted them with cheers and waving flags. Escorted by the Berkeley Committee, the Presidential party boarded a special train and was taken directly to the University grounds.
* At Berkeley everybody was out to meet them. The University town was literally draped in the American colors, and the pathway was literally strewn with flowers. It was a joyous sight to see the school children waving little flags in token of welcome. It was a joyous sight to see the students, in the University, and the great crowd was everywhere before the U. C. campus.
* The visit of the Cabinet will ever remain a memorable event in the University's history. It was a splendid greeting that they received in California's great seat of learning. The college yell was never before given with such vigor and volume. The exercises were held on the upper path and seats had been provided for 500 people, but fully 2000 were present. A forest of flags fluttered in the breeze. It was a cheering that stirred the heart of the beholder.
* Apparently the students were determined that the Cabinet should know that they were glad to see them. The shouts rang through the classic oak groves and reverberated back from the evergreen hills that circle around the college like a protecting rampart.
* Then the Presidential party took luncheon with President Benjamin H. Wheeler. After luncheon the Presidential party was driven to the beautiful residence of Senator Perkins on the heights above Lake Merritt. Here the party was presented to a great number of ladies and gentlemen. The Oakland Reception Committee here took charge of the party. After a brief stay the party was driven to the High School, passing thousands of school children waving miniature flags and throwing the way with flowers. The streets were lined with crowds, and the windows, porches and balconies were thronged with spectators.
* At the High School more than 1000 people besides several thousand school children had assembled. The party was escorted by an escort of two companies of Infantry and a company of Marines, with three bands.
* Mayor Harlow extended to the party the welcome of the city and introduced them to the children and the crowd amid thousands of applause.
* At the close of the remarks the party was driven through streets festooned with bunting and gay with flags and decorations to the foot of Broadway. The water front as well as the streets were thronged with spectators and every mast in the harbor fluted flags and streamers.
* A Presidential salute fired by the California Yacht Club signaled that the visit to Oakland was a memory, and that the Presidential party had embarked on a more for San Francisco.

PRESIDENT DID NOT COME WITH PARTY.

The tug Golden Gate, having the party on board, arrived at the Oakland mole a few minutes before 10 o'clock. For fully an hour before that time the ferry building was crowded with those eager to catch an early glimpse of the President and the members of the State cabinet. Police had great difficulty in keeping the passing way clear between the landing and the special train that carried the party to Berkeley.
* When it was learned that the President had not accompanied the party, the eager and enthusiastic spectators did not attempt to conceal their disappointment, but almost immediately boarded the respective local trains for Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley.
* The special train was composed of Southern Pacific coaches Nos. 156, 153 and 125 and Division Superintendent Agler's own private coach, No. 1002, which had been intended for President McKinley's special convenience.
* The engine had been elaborately decorated with festoons of roses of the national colors and bunting. The roses were given in Fruitvale and were furnished by Mrs. J. C. Wilder of Berkeley, the Messrs. McIntosh, Messrs. Hay, Thompson and Allen of Fruitvale. It was remarked by Superintendent Agler that he had never seen a locomotive more prettily and more beautifully decorated.
* The crew of the train was composed of Conductor Fred Garmon, Brakemen O. Neil and Hawk, Engineer J. Sullivan and Fireman H. Wymouth. They were attired in navy blue uniforms and each wore the national colors.
* The party was met when the tug landed, by the reception committee of men and women from Berkeley, and escorted to the special train.

CABINET AND GOVERNOR NASH AT BERKELEY.

BERKELEY, May 15.—There were many smooth-shaven, chubby faces that were taken for President McKinley when the Presidential special train arrived at Berkeley depot at 10:25 this morning, but the mist that hung low in the hills back of the University town bespoke a bad omen—the President was not among the distinguished arrivals.
* All morning every car bound for Berkeley was loaded with passengers. Five special trains brought crowds from San Francisco and when the President had taken his train in there was a crowd to welcome the visitors such as Berkeley had never seen before.
* The depot, hotels, business places and the postoffice, as well as all of the residences along Center street, through which the procession was to march, were gorgeously decorated. The streets were properly wined, and W. H. Harrison, president of the Board of Town Trustees, acting as Chief Marshal, with twenty-five aids and the assistance of infantrymen, managed the large throng without a fault.
* Shortly before the Presidential special arrived twenty carriages drove up from Oakland and took positions along the curb just back of the depot.

* Close by the tracks at Center street crossing stood the band of Mrs. F. M. Smith in charge of her two children, who were attired in neat Meltons and silver buttons. The carriage was driven by a pair of well-groomed chestnuts. There was absolutely nothing to mar the reception at the depot, except it be the non-arrival of President McKinley, and this one sad disappointment the people took very philosophically. The heart and sympathy of all seemed to go out to the President and his ailing wife.

ARRIVAL OF TRAIN.

The Presidential train arrived shortly before 10:25. It consisted of engine 1222 elaborately decorated and four vestibule passenger coaches in charge of J. C. Wilder.
* As the distinguished visitors alighted from the special President Benjamin H. Wheeler of the University escorted Governor Gage and Secretary of State Hay. Mrs. Smith's husband and each were given a round of hearty "three cheers."
* Governor Nash of Ohio and his delegation numbering nearly fifty were in charge of John B. Richards of Channing way as host, and among the other distinguished guests were Admiral Phelps, Charles A. Moore of New York and those given heretofore as making up the Presidential party.
* When all had been comfortably provided with seats in carriages the command was given and the procession moved up Center street in the following order:
* Captain Emil Kethen and James Barker in advance.
* Grand Marshal Robert H. Deland, Chief and Robert Glick, and assistants S. J. Muma, A. E. Shaw, H. L. Griffiths, G. W. Marner, Cecil Reel and Lewis Barker, cavalry escort, carriages containing members of Reception Committee, carriages containing Governor Gage, Secretary of State Hay and President Wheeler, escorted by Troop H, 16th Cavalry, under command of Captain Williams; carriages containing Governor Gage and Nash, Senators and Congressmen and Ohio delegation; Comanches A and B; Eighteenth Infantry Regulars under Major Adams; Berkeley High School students and a motley throng of followers.
* THE PROCESSION.
* The procession moved up Center street from the depot through the University grounds, the entrance being carefully guarded and the party being greeted on either side by school children and spectators waving flags and cheering lustily.
* AT THE U. C.
* At the upper track enclosure, where the commencement exercises were afterwards held, the Presidential party was met by an escort of ten of the oldest professors of the State University—Professors Martin Kellogg, Joseph Le Conte, Frank Scott, George Davidson, W. B. Fisher, George H. Howard, F. G. Reese, H. H. Hazard and Irving Sturtevant, Berkeley, Cal.
* The carriages in line around the upper track halted in front of the grand stand, where the distinguished visitors alighted.
* At 10 o'clock debate word was received that President McKinley would not cross the bay, his wife being much worse this morning.

THE PROCESSION.

The procession moved up Center street from the depot through the University grounds, the entrance being carefully guarded and the party being greeted on either side by school children and spectators waving flags and cheering lustily.

GREAT SCENE AT THE STATE UNIVERSITY.

Fifteen thousand people assembled on the University campus at Berkeley this morning to greet President McKinley and his distinguished party of officials and friends, and 15,000 people were disappointed.
* President McKinley did not make his appearance.
* Every person present, however, knew that the failure of the President to grace the occasion with his presence was due to the illness of his wife, which it was believed that, since last night's report, become somewhat more aggravated.
* THE WAIT.
* The President was expected up to the last moment, and when a shout from the undergraduates went up to the effect that the President was coming, every eye in the immense gathering peered through the oaks. Equipped with cavalry escort could be discerned. A dozen of the older professors of the University rose from their seats and walked to the entrance of the Presidential platform to join President Wheeler in welcoming the Chief Executive of the nation. In a few moments, however, they sorrowfully returned to their seats. Then President Wheeler appeared escorted Governor Gage of this State and Secretary of State Hay. The Governor took a seat in the middle of the stage which it was supposed had been provided for President McKinley. That settled the doubts of the people and the disappointment was so sore that the spectators did not know how to give Governor Gage the reception which ordinarily he would have received.

THE SCENE.

The exercises were held in a temporary coliseum erected on the right of Governor Gage and was given two enthusiastic bursts of applause. President Wheeler sat on the left of Governor Gage and he also was cheered.

FINE ARRANGEMENTS.

Acres of rough timber seats securely braced and separated by aisles had been erected on the level. Those were called by "bleachers" rising in tiers, in some instances to a prodigious height. Of these seats 5,000 had been provided with numbers, and each of these numbered seats had a ticket attached to it. The owners of these tickets were escorted to the seats they called for by members of the University Battalion. There was little confusion when the enormous number of people to be handled taken into consideration, and an excellent aid to this was the systematic lines outlined by wires which led to each section of the amphitheater. The color of the ticket indicating the ticket color of the ticket indicating the section to which the auditor was directed.
* At the entrance to each of these lines there was displayed a large sign indicating what color of ticket would be received at that particular entrance.

PROCESSION.

The procession moved up Center street from the depot through the University grounds, the entrance being carefully guarded and the party being greeted on either side by school children and spectators waving flags and cheering lustily.

PRESIDENT'S STAND.

The immediate stand intended for the President was covered by a canopy of yellow and blue and the national colors, the top of which had offsetting frames, the largest extending outward and upward toward the western side of the oval, and was decorated with a view to enable the President's voice to reach all parts of the oval with as little exertion as possible on his part.

PROFESSORS AND STUDENTS.

Behind the Presidential stand and extending for several hundred feet on either side were 40 seats for members of the Academic Senate and by more for the members of the graduating class. Between these two sections accommodations were provided for the Presidential party and invited guests from Oakland, Alameda, Berkeley, San Francisco and indeed all parts of the State.
* ROOSTERS.
* The undergraduates of the University occupied seats on the opposite side of the oval, and while the people were assembling and before the opening of the exercises, they entertained the scene with yells and good-natured joshes.
* WITHOUT TICKETS.
* At 9:30 o'clock the gates were thrown open and those who had no tickets were admitted as well as those who had been otherwise provided for. At that hour there were not fewer than 15,000 people within sight and sound of where the President McKinley was to stand.

REGENTS.

At 9:30 A. M. the Regents of the University were escorted to seats on the main platform of the south of the Presidential stand. These were followed by the Academic Senate, each member wearing his mortar-board and gown slashed with velvet and radiant with a row of colors indicating the school to which he belonged. Then came the male and female graduates in their simple mortar-board and simple gowns some looking radiant and happy at the close of their school life, others serious and thoughtful as if they realized that their troubles had only begun.

MRS. HEARST.

At 10 o'clock Mrs. Phoebe Hearst, the best benefactress of the University, accompanied by Mrs. President Wheeler, made her appearance on the platform and assumed two seats which had been reserved for them. Mrs. Hearst was attired in a heavy black silk dress and wore a heavy broad velvet cape with a head ornament of purple and yellow.
* Mrs. Wheeler had a light green silk dress with a long black silk stole.
* Mrs. Hearst was pale, but as usual smiling and radiant, and was cheerfully greeted by the students.

* OAKLAND PEOPLE.
* Among the many Oakland people were noticed: Hon. Victor H. Metcalf, Judge Noble Hamilton, Senator Lukens, D. Edwards Collins, Ralph F. Adams, Fred M. Campbell, Judge Melton, Atty. Gen. W. H. Davis, Bernard Miller, George Wright, Rev. E. K. Baker, D. E. McVade, John A. Biles, W. D. Arnold, W. L. Tompkins, Dr. E. H. Woodsey, P. E. Howes, Judge Hall, District Attorney Allen, George Samuels and others.

SEC. HAY SPEAKS AT U. C. FOR PRESIDENT.

President Wheeler introduced Governor Gage and Governor Gage introduced Secretary of State John Hay, who spoke as follows:
* Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen: It is easy for you to appreciate the feeling of profound devotion with which we, the associates of the President in this journey, appear before you today. He had hoped to be with you in person. He had long looked forward to the pleasure of meeting you personally, but the serious condition of Mrs. McKinley's health has made it impossible for him to leave the city of San Francisco today. He charged us, therefore, to come in his stead and express his profound feelings of sorrow and disappointment that he was not able to be with you.

"I can well appreciate your feelings of disappointment and I hope you will be able to sympathize a little with ours. He would have come to you with enthusiasm as warm as yours; with sympathy as quick as those of the youngest among you; to bring to you some of his garnered stores of experience and of wisdom, and that I am forced to stand before you with empty hands and to plead in formal public life, indeed nothing. He has been from the moment of his entrance into this great State of California charmed and delighted with everything that he saw and with everything that he met. Yours is indeed a worthy heritage."

STATE'S GREAT BEAUTY.

"I have never seen so much of material beauty in my life as I have seen since we came from the mountains and deserts into these wonderful valleys (California). COUNTY OF MIRACLES.
* "It is a country of easy miracles. Everything is possible in such a State and such a people. The beauty of California is not that fatal gift of which the Greek sang in words of more melody than truth. It is a people who are content in any other person's lines of literature—the beauty of California instead of being an element of weakness as that of Italy is to her an element of strength and power. It is more like the beauty of a queen which allows the lustre to the crown than that of a person which attracts the notice of a marching soldier. This great State of powerful members of an individual has been a great blessing to the competition or envy of any person. You are born to great destinies. A great present is yours."

FASTER FUTURE.

"A faster future awaits you. And since I have spoken of state I will refer once more to the thought which has been much in our minds since we arrived here. That famous aphorism of the theosophy and the Alps lies to the north of the State of California. It is a thought which can be applied to the State of California with even more fitness than the great German poet applied it to his travels over the Alps and Italy. Your Alps are all behind you. And your difficulties and dangers are all behind you. You are now in the position of the world are past away forever now. Now and greater conquests await you, the conquests of the spirit, the conquests of the intellect, and here as in your material development and in the noble beauty of the State you have no fear of rivals and no competition in the world."

THE UNIVERSITY.

"The pride of this is in the magnificent institution of learning. The fruit of educated public spirit of intelligent private munificence—Applause. It is impossible to get behind the door of the influence of an institution like this. You start where the institutions of the old world have arrived after centuries of successful effort and development. Here at the utmost verge of this great continent stands a state which is a Cambridge ready-made. Applause."

EXERCISES OPEN ON THE CAMPUS.

EVERETT J. BROWN.

President Wheeler announced that Bishop Nichols would deliver a prayer and the prayer was fervently offered.
* EVERETT J. BROWN.
* Everett J. Brown of the Law Department spoke on the subject: "The Law School Graduate. His Training and Opportunity" as follows:
* The principal duties and vast responsibilities assumed by those who enter the legal profession demand that the State should jealously guard admission thereto and exact a thorough preparation on the part of all those whom it allows to stand before their fellow-men in this fiduciary capacity. If it is true, as is charged, that in this country the calling of the law has of late years somewhat degenerated from its high standard, that the spirit of conservatism has infected it, the cause is easily discernible—the portals of the bar have been thrown too widely open. In many of the States of the Union a mere formal and perfunctory examination has been the only impediment in the way of him who would enter.

STOPS THE COUGH AND WORKS OFF THE COLD.

Blackstone was not merely the classic, but the text book to be read, classed and even memorized. In the course of study today the theoretical is made real by the practical, through the study of actual cases, where each side has presented its cause with all the research, ability and skill that learned counsel could command. The student sees the theory of the law in the methods of procedure, follows the final issues raised and reaches the decision; from this study he makes the theories of law involved more completely his own than he could in any other manner.
* Whenever man has speculated and striven into whatever sphere of human activity, his progress is not made until there has followed a law to govern and protect him in all his varied relations with his fellow-man. And thus the student of cases becomes acquainted with questions of public morality, of literature and science, of commerce and trade of manufactures and agriculture. One controversy may deal with the property of individual lands, another may effect a change in the government and another may hold in the balance the very existence and life of a nation. The student's mind, therefore, should be broadened that he may grasp not only the legal principles, but the technical knowledge involved in the case at hand.
* Inspired by the environment of his law school, the graduate faces the opportunities which lie before him in the boundless expanse of the law. Especially in this self-governed land is there a broad field for him who would participate in the affairs of government. The future of this country depends upon its success in having men with strong character, with thorough fitness and preparation, to intervene themselves in the perplexing public problems that arise from time to time. The honored guest of this occasion, and the majority of his predecessors in the Presidency of the Nation, have been lawyers. The majority of our Senators and Representatives, and, indeed, of all who have directed public affairs, have been lawyers. And this is but natural; for who are more capable to make and administer the law than those who have made it the work of their lives?
* What is true of our whole country applies with especial force here on this far western verge of the continent, where our civilization after its westward march of centuries now stands face to face with the older civilizations—gathering the peoples from the loathsome of ages to an active and a broader existence, opening up new avenues of trade, creating new commercial conditions, and thus widening the domain of order and of law.
* But the opportunity of the lawyer does not cease with his public relations. He has a still greater duty, a heavier responsibility; and that is the protection

A Chance For Life.

A CRY OF WARNING AND OF HOPE.

History repeats itself.
* When the first dam burst or reservoir wall gave way and the man on horseback sped down the valley with the alarm, he was doing exactly what would be done under the same circumstances generation after generation. He was giving the people in the line of the flood a chance for life.
* The man who was in some sudden peril has been plunged in the engulfing wave, or caught in an upper chamber of a burning house; these know how all of present and future can be gathered into that brief sentence, "A chance for life."

* There is another class of people, those in danger from disease, who understand how much lies in those few words. There are men and women living today in healthy active enjoyment of life who can look back to the time when they were weak and emaciated, coughing until the blood trickled over their lips, seeing no hope of escape from that dread disease consumption.

But a chance for life came to them and they took it.
* "I feel very grateful for the home-treatment given me by the World's Dispensary Medical Association," writes Mr. T. J. F. Brown, of Sands, Watauga Co., N. C. "I had catarrh for several years, then took grip, also had hemorrhage from the lungs. I had the best medical attention, but only to bring partial relief. I got up for a few months, but had more hemorrhages. I took Dr. K—'s Discovery (twenty-five or thirty bottles), but in a few months I had more spells of bleeding. I wrote to Dr. Pierce and received directions what kind of medicine to use; I commenced taking 'Golden Medical Discovery' and Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. I had only taken one bottle when I could see I was improving. I used five bottles of 'Discovery' and three bottles of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. I have been able to do any kind of labor for more than twelve months. Well, I just simply owe my life to the World's Dispensary Medical Association."

A CHANCE FOR EVERY ONE.

Arguing from the cures effected by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, there's a good chance of recovery for every one who suffers with weak lungs, obstinate cough, bronchitis and other forms of disease which if neglected or unsatisfactorily treated find a fatal termination in consumption. What the chance of recovery is may be determined by the fact that of the thousands of per-

WEDNESDAY MAY 15, 1901

WELCOME MCKINLEY!

The visit of President McKinley's party to Oakland today is indeed an occasion to stir up the patriotic enthusiasm of every loyal citizen. It is always an honor to welcome the Chief Executive of the nation and his Cabinet, and the much more so when at such personal and family inconvenience, he undertakes a 10,000 mile trip in order to respond to invitations that have been pouring in from every section of the country since the moment he was installed at Washington four years ago.

President McKinley's trip West is of a semi-official nature. It would be classified as official if he came here with some specific national undertaking in view, such as to inspect our harbor defenses, or to review the troops and military equipment at the Presidio. Instead of in that capacity, however, he comes in response to the many urgent appeals to let the people of the great West personally see the President of the nation—the man for whom they have twice fought and conquered at the polls.

There is one feature of the President's visit that invests it with a strong touch of sentiment, and that is the memory it carries in after years to the young, back East where the President resides this feature of the event is almost entirely lost owing to his being more or less every-day acquaintance, but out here where, so far, the visits of Chief Executives have been few and far between, such occasions become of life-long importance. For example, those who were in Oakland when Grant came here twenty years or so ago now proudly recall that event and give details regarding it with an air of superiority, while the school children of the days when Harrison was on the coast have been proud ever since of their knowledge of his visit.

So it will be with McKinley. His trip West at this particular time is a fitting sequel to our military and commercial triumphs in the Orient. He is the man of the hour and the idol of the American people by reason of his individuality as well as by virtue of his high office as President of the United States. Well, therefore, can we bid our distinguished guest "All Hail!"

OUR SECRET OF SUCCESS.

American business methods received a deserved tribute when the new president of the Iron and Steel Institute of England declared the other day that his countrymen must adopt them. One of the greatest manufacturers of Great Britain has also affirmed that unless our ideas of trade are accepted in that country its commercial supremacy will be lost as thoroughly as it is now in the steel business.

The secret of American success in every direction is that this country is not bound by traditions and that it regards as behind the times what other nations are pleased to consider as conservative. If we see a profitable market we enter it with our goods, and as they are manufactured in this country, owing to the use of modern machinery, at a cost far less than that of our competitors, as a rule we make sales and we sell for cash. Credit is a notoriously unprofitable method of dealing both to seller and buyer, and we prefer coin to time. Other nations laugh at us for insisting on sight drafts, but in the end their representative firms in foreign countries retire from business, while ours remain on the spot and customers are compelled to accept our terms. We make a dollar, while our rivals of other lands make thirty cents, and our profit is in cash, while theirs is in long time paper.

Our financiers and manufacturers early perceived the advantage of cultivating a home market and followed it up. With the fostering care of the Government under Republican administration our great mills and works of all descriptions were enabled first to compete with foreign factories, and then to shut them out from American patronage, and finally to invade their own fields—literally, to carry coal to Newcastle. While we were paying only incidental attention to commerce with other nations—though more than 100,000 of our own in that respect, as we have said—England was building up its trade in all directions except at home. Our countrymen patronized their own manufacturers and built up such a business for them that poor old England is now unable to hold the trade of even her own tight little island, let alone that of the foreign nations, which she had spent so much time and care in developing.

Watch the result. Today Britain's greatest producers bow to progress and proclaim the virtues of American methods that only a few years ago they scoffed at and contemned.

Although the heavy fog attending the Presidential visit has been unpleasant, it will not be without its good effect, for it will impress upon the Cabinet Ministers the necessity of that cable line to the Farallones we have urged so long. At so important a port as this the comparatively small expense of laying and maintaining the cable should not be considered as against the enormous benefits that would result to shipping therefrom. The approach of vessels could be heralded long before we could see them from the mainland, and tugs and other such assistance could be sent to arrivals needing help in stormy or foggy weather.

Oregonians are complaining because McKinley is to be hurried through their State during the dead of night. The committee on itinerary, though, knows its business, for it doesn't want to take the chances of having cold water thrown upon the President's excursion, which would certainly happen if he stopped over in the land of perpetual rain.

Painters have joined the ranks of the strikers. This gives color to the belief that the lock-out will soon become general.

REV. C. R. BROWN SPEAKS BEFORE BOSTON PEOPLE.

Oakland Pastor Tells the East What Is Needed in the Church in the West.

BOSTON, May 15.—The seventy-fifth anniversary of the Congregational Home Missionary Society is being celebrated today by a large meeting and discussions and reading of papers.

The Rev. Charles R. Brown, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Oakland, Cal., was one of the prominent speakers of the day. He spoke on the subject, "The Congregational Church Suited to the West." Dr. Brown spoke as follows:

"We have some special difficulties in the West. We have the world, the flesh and the devil to fight as you have—these elements in society are not provincial, but truly cosmopolitan—and we have also some problems peculiar to our section.

"We are new. Religion is one of the conservative forces in society and is a plant of slow growth. Religion has not come to its own on the Pacific Coast. The settled habit of church going, of Sabbath observance and recognition of religion as a constituent element in complete life have not advanced in the far West to the place they hold in Massachusetts.

PURITAN IDEAS

"We suffer from a deliberate and intense reaction against Puritan ideas. The strong, natural, adventurous men all ways rally on the frontiers of thought and action. They feel somewhat impatient of even legitimate restraint. Personal liberty is quoted above its real value and obligation to law is below par. The 'who's afraid' habit of mind is not conducive to piety. With all their limitations, the Puritans humbled themselves before God who hated evil every day in the year, and it was for their health and strength. The very outburstness of California life tends to weaken such a sense of moral obligation. It is easier to believe in the wrath of God against sin in Northampton than in Pasadena, especially in the winter months. This intense feeling of personal freedom has sometimes worked against the highest type of Christian devotion or of church loyalty.

ON WALL STREET

"We find an intense absorption in gain. This is not entirely peculiar to the West—I saw some men on Wall Street last Saturday who were somewhat preoccupied in the same way, and no doubt there are men in Boston who so far forget themselves occasionally as to miss prayer meeting on account of devotion to business. But this interest in gain is unusually strong and steady in California because the history of the State is a record of extraordinary opportunities. The chance for wealth in the gold fields was followed by a greater chance in wheat, and that by fruit, and that by lumber, and then saloons, best sugar, cattle raising, and now real estate. All of these have opened the way to rapid fortune. The opening of new markets across the Pacific to commerce has given a mighty stimulus to all lines of trade. In the face of such opportunities as these, few sections of earth have offered the complete devotion to business on the part of thousands of strong men has to an extent militated against attention to church life.

NEEDS OF CHURCH IN WEST

"I would name four especial needs of the church in the West:

I. Well built men in the ministry. It is true everywhere that the minister himself counts more than the system or the ritual of the polity, but because institutions are not so well developed it is peculiarly true with us. Ministers who have been on the foreign frontier here in the East with no takers have come home advised to go West and grow up with the country. Such men are scarce, and the church must look down with them. Invalids may come to our aid, but the need, but to build up struggling churches they do not meet the need. One lung is not enough for a Western minister—two at the very least are demanded! Other preachers come with tuberculosis of the brain and heart, which is still more fatal to usefulness. Men who lack sufficient brains and piety to get on in the East will not serve our needs. The church must look to the frontier having on the breastplate of truth and righteousness, having a well understood body of doctrine and a vigorous, wholesome Christian life.

II. We need more denominational efficiency. We have about Christian unity. Denominationalism is a fact. We can ignore it, as we have been doing lately, because we are one to work out our own welfare for itself. We can count it, which is brave but useless. We can utilize it as proposed in federation of forces. Many clear-headed Christians young men are refusing to enter the ministry for the sake of preaching to an eighth of some small community. It is too much to expect that denominational boards of home missions should come together in one place, with one accord, with one mind, and be filled by one spirit to such an extent as to act and plan together for the interests of the common field? We have a steel trust and a Standard Oil trust and a sugar trust—but the religion of Christ is not enough and smooth enough and unified enough to subordinate unity to cooperation? We need not lay aside our personal tastes in ritual or polity, but if we could see that essential Christianity is common stock held by us all and not the preferred or peculiar possession of any sect, we could organize and federate our forces for the glory of God and for the good of Christ's Kingdom. The people do not care half as much as the preachers think they do about 'historic order' or 'apostolic succession,' whether it is supposed to be in the line of the apostles, or in the line of Luther, or in the line of Calvin or in the line of Plymouth Rock. The church that preaches the best gospel and lives the best life is the true church wherever the sun shines. Federation of forces, which confessedly are working for one end, is sorely needed in the West. You say the time is not ripe—let's ripen it.

III. We need a church that will recognize the presidential opportunity on the Pacific Coast. 'To the Jew first' for the sake of the Gentile afterward—that was the scriptural order! The gospel for the Western States first for the sake of the Gentile world that waits across the water. We are meeting Asia face to face and its life must be preserved by good influences. The sacred touch of America upon China through its missionaries has been full of glory, as the martyrs of the last year declare. The secular touch of Christianity upon China through European diplomacy, through opium forcing commerce, and through looting and outrage of allied soldiers has been full of infamy. The contrast is a mighty appeal for both home and foreign missionary effort.

TOUCH OF RACE ON RACE

The touch of race on race across the Pacific grows warmer every day. Through the channels of trade, through the sending over of hundreds of young men into educational work in the Orient, through the contact opened up by their looking to us for professional instruction, and through an ever growing travel, the touch of life on life becomes more intimate. The only safety for the awakening peoples in the Philippines, in China and in Japan is to fill these channels with the water of life, as well as with the secular freight they bear.

SPREAD THE GOSPEL

"Paul saw a Man of Macedonia beckoning him to bring the gospel over into Europe. We cannot estimate the results today of his obedience to that heavenly vision. He stands out against those of us who live on the Pacific Coast a man forty times as great as Paul's man, beckoning us to bring the gospel over into Asia. He calls to us, 'Make your whole Coast an apostle to the Gentiles.' Fill the heads of your people with Paul's gospel and their hearts with his love and then through the touch of your commercial, political, social, educational and religious life upon ours, come over into Asia and help us."

SPORTING NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Much Interest Taken in the Baseball Games.

San Francisco jumped another notch in the league race by taking three of the five games played with Oakland, Sacramento and Los Angeles broke even, and positions remain about the same. Following is the club standing to date:

Club	W.	L.	P.	Per Cent.
San Francisco	25	17	11	.597
Los Angeles	25	19	13	.569
Oakland	25	18	15	.561
Sacramento	25	18	15	.561

Oakland and Fresno played a very interesting series, and it was simply bad luck that the "Fashion Plates" did not take the entire series. Although the home team did not do much with the stick, the Fresno did but very little better. In fielding the home team did by far the best work. A summary of the work done in the series was as follows:

Club	W.	L.	P.	Per Cent.
San Francisco	14	10	11	.583
Los Angeles	14	10	11	.583
Oakland	14	10	11	.583
Sacramento	14	10	11	.583

Down at Los Angeles the Sacramento made it an even break with the Oakland. The champions did the best hitting and fielding honors were about even. Following is a summary of the work done in the series:

Club	W.	L.	P.	Per Cent.
Los Angeles	14	10	11	.583
Sacramento	14	10	11	.583
Oakland	14	10	11	.583
San Francisco	14	10	11	.583

Doyle did some great work with the stick in the past few games. He has tossed all the cracks and now leads the league. In 25 games played he has been 79 times at bat, scored 12 runs, stole 7 bases and made 21 safe hits, giving him a batting percentage of .320.

Kruk has a very tempting offer from the Philadelphia American League team and will probably accept it. His departure will seriously weaken Uncle Hank's gang of "Boyzottis."

Dreman continues his good work with the stick and leads the Dudes. In 25 games he has made 11 runs, stolen 3 bases, gone 35 times to bat and made 29 safe hits, giving him a batting percentage of .352.

The game at the home grounds Sunday morning attracted the usual large crowd, and although not a brilliant contest it was entirely satisfactory, as it gave the visitors a chance to show their appreciation of the downfall of the Wasps. Both pitchers were in good form, but errors by Fresno at critical times gave Oakland the game.

Jimmy Brennan occupied a seat on the players' bench alongside of Manager Ewing. Brennan is also a manager, having charge of the Maxwell team in the Commercial League, and he was probably looking for a few dollars on how they conduct affairs in the big league.

In the absence of Lohman the catching was done by Dunne, and he put up a brilliant game behind the bat. He threw well to bases, and his gathering in of high fairs was pleasing to the spectators. He also did good work with the stick, making ten hits out of three times at bat.

Neil Hall sat on the bleachers and enjoyed the game as he did in the old days when "Colonel" Robinson was in his prime and the great Roscoe Coughlin was pitching his team into the championship. Neil wonders if the time will ever come again when the home team will be given banners and receptions in full evening attire and the person at the head of the golden gate grounds.

Jimmy Whelan displayed a nasty bit of temper when he disputed Empire Dunne's decision on balls and strikes by throwing his glove on the ground. The proper thing for the umpire to do in a case like that is to remove the player from the game, and it was surprising to see the umpire take no notice of the offense.

West Oakland Club.

The next gentlemen's night will be held at the club on Tuesday evening, May 22, and will consist of a ray light and two star-gated races for decisions.

The match-maker has prepared another fine card for the occasion, and the names of the contestants will be published next week.

The membership of the club is rapidly increasing. The following were admitted to membership at the last meeting of the Board of Directors: J. J. Carroll, E. Coffman, W. Finn, M. Carroll, W. Brock, E. G. Gove, G. Haymer, Geo. Brown, Wm. Gress, J. O'Neill, T. O'Neill and E. Rayval.

Quite a number of the members are preparing for the Olympic Club boxing tournament to be held next month, and are working out every night. The gymnasium presents a very lively appearance.

The chessmen put in a Newark last Sunday was postponed to a week from next Sunday, as all the boys wanted to see the final of the relay race.

Quite a number of the members are planning their summer vacations and are making preparations for good times. Some of the members went to the street carnival at Sacramento, and all had a very enjoyable time.

A vacant chair and a portrait on the wall—strange symbols of success! Yet, in many a home these are the symbols of the success of the man who did not find time to care for his health, or neglected the increasing warnings of disease.

which Nature gave him. When the stomach is "weak" and food is imperfectly digested and assimilated, it is only a question of time until the break-down comes. The stomach is the very center of vital power and must be kept in health if sickness is to be avoided. Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It increases the supply of pure, rich blood, and gives the body strength to withstand the strain upon it by the struggle for success.

"I was a sufferer from indigestion, but after trying several eminent physicians failed to get a cure," writes Frank Mericle, of Independence, Jackson Co., Mo., Box 475. "Some one recommended me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which I did, and after taking only a few bottles of 'Discovery' and your 'Bitter Pellets' can say I derived more benefit from them than any other medicine I ever tried. I began to gain flesh from the start. I have recommended it to others and will continue to do so."

W. F. DARLING KILLS HIMSELF

Supt. of Haywards Water Supply Was Tired of Life.

HAYWARDS, May 15.—W. F. Darling, superintendent of the San Lorenzo Water Company, committed suicide at 7:30 A. M. this morning by shooting himself in the head. He died instantly.

Mr. Darling has been drinking heavily of late, and for the past few days he has been in a dazed condition. This morning when his daughter entered his room he was apparently all right. He kissed her and said, "Good-bye, darling." As she closed the door of the room he fired the fatal shot. Miss Darling hearing the report of the pistol re-entered the room and found her father dead.

Mr. Darling told Trustee Bremer that he often had dependent spells and a thought of shooting himself.

The deceased was 47 years old. He had been in Haywards about eight years, having come from Marysville, where he was connected with the water works. He resided with his family on D street, the house being located between the Alameda and McAllister churches.

Mr. Darling was a member of the Alameda County. He was a Veteran of the Civil War. He had a host of friends. Coroner McIntosh will hold an inquest this evening.

HERMAN DE LAGUNA'S WILL IS FILED.

The will of Herman de Laguna, who died on April 24th last, has been filed for probate by Attorney Fred L. Blum for the request of Miss Anna de Laguna, sister, who is named as executrix in the document. The deceased, in the instrument, stated that he had the same affection for all members of the family, but he bequeathed his property to his sister Anna, as he felt that she would treat all the other members of the family as she should. He was a native of Spain, and his sister Anna, who is now in the city, is a widow and has several children. The will was drawn by the deceased himself on September 21, 1899, he being a resident of Stockton at that time. It states that the document that he was married and had two sons. He left real property located in Alameda, Contra Costa, Fresno, and Los Angeles counties. Much of his estate is mining property of unknown value. The young man had many friends in this city, where his family has resided for many years.

WON THE MEDAL AT THE UNIVERSITY.

BERRIDGE, May 15.—Wesley Newman, student of the College of Letters, has won the great University gold medal, which the Regents of the University of California confer upon the most distinguished scholar of the graduating class each year. Newman's name was presented to the Board of Regents at its annual meeting yesterday afternoon by President Wheeler on behalf of the academic faculties, and the selection was unanimously approved. He will be decorated with the medal in the course of the commencement exercises today.

She Wants Her Money.

Lulu Collamore, one of the devisees under the will of the late Henry Sevenson, the Alameda banker, who died in that city last December, has petitioned the Superior Court for a partial distribution of the estate, namely, that portion bequeathed to the neighbor, consisting of the family residence at the corner of Central avenue and Everett street, Alameda, together with all the furniture, pictures, silver plate, china, and cutlery therein, except large portraits of deceased and wife, also the horses, carriages and harness owned by deceased at the time of his death.

MERCHANTS HAVE A FINE BANQUET.

W. R. Davis Tells of the Needs of the City.

The Merchants' Exchange held its annual meeting and banquet last night. There was a good attendance and but little routine business to transact.

Director Schott reported progress in the matter of the proposed construction of a tunnel between Alameda and Contra Costa county. The cost he said would not exceed $200,000. Mr. Schott paid a glowing tribute to Thomas H. Williams Jr., to whom he said great credit is due for the $250,000 now awaiting use in the tunnel proposition. Mr. Williams gave a tunnel day, and Mr. Schott said that probably if the people had taken hold of the big improvement Mr. Williams would have lent further assistance.

Secretary Walker stated that a list of citizens had been submitted and called out inviting them to assemble at the rooms of the Exchange next Tuesday to arrange for a Fourth of July celebration.

A letter was read from C. K. King, commanding company A, Veteran Reserve, N. G. C., pertaining to their services to the Fourth of July Committee. The committee was referred to the Fourth of July Committee.

The chair appointed Messrs. Gier, Fairwell and the secretary to convene the vote for election of directors.

It was announced that A. A. Bode & Son would launch at 12:30 P. M. Saturday the largest deep water vessel ever constructed at a shipyard in Oakland. The members of the Merchants' Exchange and of the Board of Trade were in 100 to be present on this occasion.

The directors then adjourned, and a members' meeting was held, over which the late first president and the "Industrious" president of Oakland, was presided over by H. W. Davis, Geo. E. De Golia and Geo. W. Asper.

HONORS FOR THE PRESIDENT.

The degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred upon President William McKinley by the Board of Regents of the State University at their meeting yesterday. The honor bestowed upon the Chief Executive has been granted but twice before by the University authorities.

IF HE WERE ONLY BOSS.

Geo. E. De Golia Tells Merchants What He Would Do.

At the Merchants' Exchange banquet last night George E. De Golia told what he would do if he were boss, as follows:

"I've often wanted to hire a hall and talk to you as Mr. Davis has done, free and fearless. Whether I be the new political boss or not, I take that I can talk from here, for if I were boss I'd do so any way."

"I would to find I were boss of Oakland for two years. It was my dream for years, as it was that of my friend Vrooman. He had this dream, and I like to be Boss Shepherd of Oakland and carry out Mr. Vrooman's ideas for the betterment of this city."

"There are two things that have largely occupied most of Oakland's time the past twenty years. First, running for office. Second, having much to say about your neighbors. And that isn't the way cities make themselves progressive. Settle your difference behind locked doors; then come out and be agreed and you will get on."

"Who's responsible for this retarding movement here? Knock it." "Take such a piece of property as Lake Merritt, worth $500,000 today as an asset of the city, what would any other city do with it? Oakland do with it? Doubtful if so that all the people could enjoy it. The first thing that a stranger looks at in the general business appearance of the place, the second is the condition of its streets, that you can't build a city by finding fault. You must get together, as Mr. Davis suggests, and work together for the advancement of the city. Take a lesson from the Federated Trades. I am not a prophet or the son of a prophet, but you may hear from them in a way that will alarm you. But what is the secret of their power? It is organization. Take a lesson, I say, and go together, so that you may have the power of organization for the good of Oakland. President Hadley recently said at Berkeley that back of every successful public endeavor there must be an organized public sentiment."

"The speaker declared that if he had the power he would have the city improved by a boulevard, and extend the streets from Eighth to Twelfth streets, fill the intervening space for a playground for children."

"If you want these things done, confirm my title as boss, give me the power, and after all these things have been accomplished, you will go out to Adams' point and build me a monument 200 feet high and inscribe upon it 'This is the Boss of Oakland.'"

George W. Arper was the next speaker.

MERCHANTS ELECT NEW DIRECTORS.

At the annual meeting of the Merchants' Exchange last night the following officers were elected: Geo. W. Arper, R. M. Briere, D. C. Brown, J. L. Champlin, H. C. Coward, H. D. Cushing, F. M. Darwell, Herman N. Gard, Theo. Gier, A. Jones, F. J. Lea, Herman Miller, E. F. Miller, H. E. Sanborn, A. H. Scholmer, J. W. Simons, J. W. Subst, H. T. Sutherland, W. H. W. W. Williams, J. S. Wilson, Wilber Walker.

The election of officers will take place next Tuesday.

One of the interesting features of the meeting was the report read and reviewed by Secretary Wilber Walker, as follows:

"Our organization has held forty-six meetings during the past year, having lacked a quorum but three times during that period. Harmony and unity have prevailed among our membership, and we have endeavored to advance the interests of the merchants of this city and the general welfare of the city of Oakland."

"Our weekly meetings have been well attended and have been of much interest to the general public as well as to the merchants of Oakland. Monthly reports of the secretary and treasurer are on file and therefore it will only be necessary to give the total receipts and payments as follows:

Amount in hands of treasurer
May 8, 1900.....$1,197.55
Receipts.....1,025.90
Total.....$2,223.45
Payments.....1,072.53
Balance in hands of treasurer,
May 8, 1901.....$1,150.92

Mr. Walker stated that the largest dividend work done by the Exchange.

This is really an excellent opportunity to procure a piano at figures and terms which will prove satisfactory to anybody.

We have a carload of fine pianos, which WE INTEND TO SELL AT COST in order to introduce our goods more widely.

This is our peculiar method of advertising. We believe it is better to give customers the direct benefit. If you have the slightest idea of purchasing a piano within the next few months do not let this chance escape. Anyhow call in and look over our line. We are particularly well situated to name tempting prices because we BUY FOR CASH and in large quantities. There is no reason in the world why you should not have one of our beautiful instruments in your home. We have a few bargains in slightly used upright pianos.
